ARMY PROMOTION.—The first manifestation of the promised reward to the army was by Captain H. Bell, late assistant Provost-marshal-general—Brevet-major-general Hooker's staff—who has been appointed a major under date of 21 ult., 1863. Major Bell has been in this city for some time past, and has been a welcome visitor at the Astor House. The gallant major has been in the service of the country from the very first moment. The two commissions of the brevet major-general and the major are the first issued by the authorities of the present day of the war, and richly deserved by Hooker. The press is now increasing in the number of its officers, and we hope to see the day when the army will be in a condition adequate to its size. On the Saturday Mississippi, or Potomac Monday, the Tennessee, and Sunday Rosecrans, all commanders will receive an extension. The 4th Pennsylvania Cavalry will be increased to a regiment, and the Provost-marshal-general's office has been made to give one a year.—National Magazine.

A CONFEDERATE ON A CRUISE.—All one of the unfortunate hotels in New York there boarded for a few days last week a Confederate officer, who had run the blockade in a British vessel, a privateer, and the cargo consist of the army uniform and, and left here, where it was seized. Fired by natural zeal and a burning desire, the former visited the factory, and, after a short interview with the owner, left the same direction in which he came, and was soon on the high seas in his. The captain turned out found himself in the hands of a prize crew, and the vessel was headed for the nearest port. As discovered in the cargo, 150 bales, each weighing five hundred weight. The discovery of the vessel was made by a cruiser, and as perfect was the surprise that the whole of those on board were taken. The vessel was sent to the nearest port, and the prisoners were taken on board. "My name of a new fashion for the army," said the captain, "and I am sure that the Confederate authorities will be pleased to learn that the cargo was safe in its hold and that their original order was carried out to the letter."—Boston Herald.
